MPOAC Legislative Newsletter

03/07/2020

Overview

Good morning everyone! When watching your favorite football team, whether they be a college or NFL team, you know the game is exciting when the announcer says: “This game is going into overtime”. I will not suggest to you that the same rule applies to the legislature. Leaders suggested that there is a very good chance of an extended session. Last year we went a little over, both chambers considered bills through Friday, which was the last scheduled day of session, and then met for about 15 minutes that weekend to pass the budget before heading home. We don’t know if this year will work out the same way or not. The budget leaders are publicly positive about working together to close the $1.4B gap in the two chamber’s budgets. Statements on Friday indicated that the two budgets are working towards each other but probably not before the scheduled Friday end-of-session date. Figuring out the big-ticket items will be a challenge though and there are big differences on VISIT Florida, state employee pay raises, and gambling negotiations (although that idea appears to be fading) to name a few. Budget negotiations are taking place this weekend between the chambers. There will be a lot of updates as the coming week progresses.

Most transportation bills appear to be in some form of near death and not likely to pass. The funding for transportation is in the general budget so that is safe, but bills we have been writing about in previous newsletters seem to be either stalled in one chamber or the two chambers have not reached agreement on what is appropriate language for a bill that can pass both chambers. Representative Andrade, the sponsor of House Bill 395 a general transportation bill, stated earlier in the week that his bill has a 50-50 chance of passing. He has worked hard to move his bill forward by bringing in elements of other stalled transportation bills. The Senate sort-of-companion bill is stalled as of today. All of this means that there may not be much if anything to report in next Saturday’s newsletter about changes to transportation. We will see.....

We have been watching the mid-block crossing bills, HB 1371 and SB 1000. The Senate bill has stalled, and the House bill was amended on the House Floor. The House bill is now easier for communities. The original bill was predicted to be very expensive; the amended version is in a place that transportation providers can easily comply with the requirements in HB 1371 and afford to do so. Representative Toledo brought the amendment and worked with the bill sponsor, Representative Fine, to position this bill so that it would not be so financially difficult. Our thanks to both Representative Toledo and Fine for their collaboration on this bill.

The Coronavirus is likely to put a dent in state revenues and to decrease those revenues further are member projects. There are a total of 3,213 member projects proposed this session, 1,579 projects from the Senate and another 1,634 projects from the House. The cost of those projects is not small, the Senate requested $2.5B in member initiatives, the House came in at $2.3B. Coronavirus fears put a hurt on the stock market again this week and we each can see how much of an impact it has had on individual stocks, how it will affect the state revenues is not yet calculated.

The regular session began on January 14th, was scheduled to end on March 13th and for these times in between these dates our capitol is a busy place. Your MPOAC Legislative Update will keep you apprised of newly filed bills and changes to existing bills.
